The number 2, volume 60, which now goes public, is another solid foundation in the historical trajectory of the Revista da Faculdade de Direito UFPR (UFPR Law School Review), which already has sixty-two years of existence.

Mario Losano, once again collaborating with us, and Roberto Gargarella, who presents us his excellent reflection on Interpretation and democratic dialogue, among other national and international renown, illustrate the cast of this new edition, prepared in the light of editorial experience and criteria of our evaluators.

This gathering of big names associated with the excellence of the publications means the constant search for reconciling tradition and innovation, and, as recognition of this diligence, the evaluation commission of the Qualis/Capes recently raised our journal to the A2 category.

To all who contributed to the refinement of this number, we address our gratitude. Special thanks go to Gustavo Silveira Siqueira and to Miguel Gualano de Godoy, who mediated us to, respectively, Professors Losano and Gargarella.

With the collaboration of all, we will do better and better.

Enjoy your reading!
